BUCKSKIN SCOUT RESERVATION
ADVENTURE @ The Summit

Adventure @ The Summit is a partnership between the Buckskin Council and the Summit Bechtel Reserve to provide additional adventure sports opportunities to youth attending the Buckskin Scout Reservation .

The program is available to members of troops attending Buckskin Scout Reservation (BSR) who are at least 14 years old and meet the BSA National High Adventure base requirements. To participate in the program, register to attend BSR with your troop and select the Adventure @ The Summit option. The cost for the program is $465.

As an Adventure @ The Summit participant, you will travel to Buckskin Scout Reservation on Sunday with your troop for opening day activities. On Monday Morning you will depart with other Scouts from Buckskin Scout Reservation for three and a half days of adventure opportunities at the Summit's Scott Summit Center. You will camp at the James C. Justice National Scout Camp and take your meals in the Summit's dining facility located near Gateway Village in Scott Summit Center. A tent and cot will be provided for your use at The Summit.

During your stay, you will have access to the venues located in the Scott Summit Center. Activities will allow you to try a number of adventure and action sports. Evening programs allow you to mix in the Scott Summit Center with participants from the Paul R. Christen National High Adventure Base for additional social and adventure activities.

Friday morning, you will return to Buckskin Scout Reservation to spend the final afternoon and evening at camp with your troop.

Scott Summit Center Venues

What is the Scott Summit Center?
The Summit Center, including Action Point, contains smaller versions of all of the Summit adventure venues.

Smaller does not mean easier or less fun. The Summit Center venues offer difficulty levels and opportunities that correspond to those found in the wider adventure areas, but the smaller footprint of Summit Center, including Action Point means that you can access the activities area quickly and spend more time engaged in activities.

Boulder Cove sports twenty different climbing routes (5.5 to 5.11 difficulty) and eight rappelling stations as well as a vast number of bouldering challenges.

Action Point Challenge Courses consist of two different high ropes courses designed to develop self-confidence and problem-solving skills while hanging from a rope 30-feet off the ground.

Action Point Canopy Tour consists of four distinct canopy tour opportunities, each with a series of zip lines through the tree canopy. This is a great way to have fun as well as get a different view and appreciation of the forest.

Harvey Mountain Bike Trails located in Action Point introduce mountain biking with elements of both cross country and downhill.

Action Point Skate Plaza offers opportunities for beginners and experience skaters to skate a variety of elements and features.

Action Point BMX offers the chance to try two different BMX tracks.

Water Reality Obstacle Course consists of a series of inflatable obstacles in Goodrich Lake.

Stand-up Paddleboard on Goodrich Lake will help you learn the skills of this increasing popular sport. For experience paddlers, you can take your paddle board through the wetlands paths at the west end of the lake.

Summit Center Zip Lines offers a total of 10 zip lines ranging from 1200 to 1400 feet in length descending over the AT&T Stadium

Sustainability Treehouse contains five floors of science related exhibits and activities highlighting sustainable living practices.

Whitewater Rafting in the Lower Canyon of the New River Gorge provides the chance to navigate BIG WATER — Class 1V rapids.
